1 It should come as no surprise that London is world famous as a city of culture. From brilliant museums to theaters and concerts, London has it all. If you love art, there are many wonderful galleries with art from around the globe⁽¹⁾. In fact, the only problem with London's art galleries is that there are so many. It is very difficult to find time to visit them all!

2 Although there are many types of art you could choose to see in London, as you are in Britain, why not start with some British art? Tate Britain has the largest collection of British art in the world and is the place to see the famous British landscapes by J.W.M. Turner, and the strangely compelling portraits by Francis Bacon. Tate Modern,⁽²⁾ on the other hand, displays some of the biggest names in contemporary⁽³⁾ British art such as Damien Hirst. Two other galleries well worth visiting are the National Gallery where you can see paintings by Van Gogh, Constable and Leonardo da Vinci, and the National Portrait Gallery which boasts⁽⁴⁾ portraits of famous people from Shakespeare to royalty. Best of all, all the galleries mentioned here are free to enter!

3 However, not all famous art collections are to be found in public galleries. One of the biggest collections belongs to Queen Elizabeth II. The Royal Collection consists of⁽⁵⁾ nearly 200,000 pieces, including more than 7,000 paintings and 40,000 watercolors and drawings. Some of this amazing⁽⁶⁾ collection can be viewed by the public at Windsor Castle and Buckingham Palace, while other parts are only displayed in the Queen's private residences⁽⁷⁾. Some of the most famous works included are six paintings by Rembrandt, a Monet, and the largest collection of drawings by Leonardo da Vinci anywhere in the world. British artists are represented by Gainsborough and Hogarth to name but two.

4 Japanese art is also well represented all around the UK. Japanese exhibits⁽⁸⁾ are on display in more than 150 museums around the British Isles, including the British Museum and the National Museum in Cardiff. Perhaps the most famous Japanese artist to have had her work displayed in London is Yoko Ono. It was at her exhibition at the Indica Gallery in 1966 that she first met her future husband, John Lennon!

- 5 If you enjoy art, ⁽⁹⁾by all means put aside at least a few days to browse the wonderful galleries London has to offer. Whatever your taste, London is without a doubt an art lover's paradise!

Subject : Our dinner last Saturday

Dear Manager,

I am writing about a small incident my wife and I experienced at your restaurant last Saturday.

For our 50th wedding anniversary dinner, we booked the best table overlooking the city with a splendid view. We made the reservation over eight months ago since we knew that you were one of the best in town and so it is quite difficult to reserve a table unless you do so well in advance.

Well, we arrived about 30 minutes earlier that night because the traffic wasn't as heavy as we had thought. I noticed that no one was sitting at the table we booked so we asked one of your servers if we could wait at our table. However, he declined our request, saying that he couldn't let any customers in until 10 minutes before the reservation time because it's a regulation. We told him that it's quite harsh for elderly people like us to wait outside standing in the cold. We asked him very politely a couple of times but in vain.

We understand he was only following the regulation so we don't mean to blame him at all, but having said that, we wish your staff had been trained to act more flexibly in a situation like this.

However, to be fair to you, I must say that your food was excellent and I would recommend anyone to try it.

Mr. Peter Allen
36 Marine Parade
Brighton, Ontario B1N 5G7

Dear Mr. Allen,

Thank you very much for your email regarding the unpleasant experience you had at our restaurant. Your email came as a shock to me, and I must apologize for this incident.

The waiter who served you on that night started working here only a few weeks ago. We did explain to him our basic policy regarding asking customers to wait, but he is still under training. Usually, new servers are supported by experienced servers until they are ready to work by themselves. On that night, however, we had to send most of our senior servers to a wedding reception we had catered for, leaving this new waiter to work by himself. As you kindly mentioned, he was only going by the book*, and I alone take full responsibility for this issue.

Again, please accept my apologies. I can assure you that this will not happen again. And despite what had happened, I am grateful for your kind words about our food. As a token of apology and gratitude, I have enclosed a $100 dinner voucher you can use at our restaurant in the future.

We sincerely look forward to your further patronage.

Sincerely,

Bill Wash

Manager
